I Will

Carmen Wilcox

I will give you a day
that tastes of sunshine

I will bring you Bergamot
for your skin,

and blossoms
for your room.

I will be your warrior
and avalanche blindly
into the unknown.

Always rising
exalted, supernal –
to walk at your side.

And if you should
chance to glance
at Paradise,

I will bring you that too.

And while the night borrows
the scent of the honeysuckle

I will plait you
A necklace of stars.
